Administrative History

Church Women United in Illinois (CWUI) is the state chapter of the national organization, Church Women United (CWU). Formed in 1941, CWU is an ecumenical movement of interdenominational Christian women from diverse racial, ethnic, age, and economic backgrounds. The fundamental purpose of CWU is to bring Christian women together, united in their faith, to work towards the betterment of the community and the development of women's full potential in society.

CWUI originated in 1931 as the Illinois Council of Federated Church Women. The non-profit organization changed its name to the Illinois Council of Church Women in 1936, and then to the United Council of Church Women in 1941. In 1956, it was renamed United Church Women, and officially became Church Women United in Illinois in 1967 and affiliated with CWU.

CWUI is divided into approximately 110 local units throughout the state. Each local unit has its own officers and committees, which join together annually at the State Assembly along with the organization's state officers and board members. CWUI members take part in ecumenical assemblies, area institutes and regional events for the Midwest. In conjunction with CWU, CWUI also participates in various annual activities, such as World Day of Prayer, May Fellowship Day, World Community Day, and Fellowship of the Least Coin.

The focus of CWUI and the local units reflects the issues that CWU takes up on a national scale. For instance, CWU and state chapters have focused on women in poverty, race relations, and health care reform. CWU and CWUI support other organizations, such as the National Farm Worker Ministry, the United Nations, and Women in Community Service. CWU publishes "The Churchwoman," and CWUI publishes its own quarterly state newsletter, "The Illinois Interpreter."

In 1983 CWUI started a mission to raise money to build a chapel at Dwight Correctional Center, the only women's prison in Illinois without a chapel. After a decade of fundraising, the chapel was completed in 1993. In cooperation with the Illinois Conference of Churches, CWUI has been involved with issues regarding domestic violence, aging, and people with disabilities. Through its involvement on the local level, CWUI continues to unite Christian women who work towards the betterment of Illinois communities.

Scope and Content

The Church Women United in Illinois (CWUI) Records consist of 3 linear feet and span from 1912 to 1999, with the bulk of material from 1980 to 1998. The collection is organized into seven series, arranged thematically, and no subseries. The material pertains mainly to the organization and administration of the CWUI and includes the records of the Executive Board, local affiliate handbooks, information on state assemblies, area programming, the group's history, 50th anniversary, and public activities (i.e., World Day of Prayer and Farm Worker Ministry).

List of Series

Series 1: Administration and Organization History, 1912-1999, undated Box 1-4

Contains the papers once belonging to Ella Boyd, the CWUI Historian and includes financial information about the CWUI, a list of local unit presidents, CWUI fliers, handbooks, annual reports, and correspondence to and from Ella Boyd. Additional material includes information on all CWUI Board Meetings from 1981 to 1999, divided by year and arranged chronologically as well as material related to the CWUI State Assemblies and Leader's Councils, officer nominations, and other area meetings and committees. Records related to the history of the CWUI include a written history, lists of former presidents, ephemera of the 50th anniversary, and smaller unit histories.

Series 2: Activities and Affiliated Organizations, 1973-1999, undated Box 4-5

Consists of materials related to CWUI public activities, such as World Day of Prayer and May Fellowship Day, the Dwight Correctional Center Chapel Mission, and the Campaign for Health Reform. Also included is some information about other organizations such as the Farm Work's Ministry, Women in Community Service, Illinois Conference of Churches, and Church World Service. This series also includes a scrapbook of CWUI activities.

Administrative History

Church Women United in Illinois (CWUI) is the state chapter of the national organization, Church Women United (CWU). CWU, established in 1941, is a volunteer interdenominational Christian women's movement comprised of women in the United States and Puerto Rico that works for peace and social justice.

The Illinois state chapter began in 1931 as the Illinois Council of Federated Church Women and underwent several name changes: Illinois Council of Church Women (1936), United Council of Church Women (1941), and United Church Women (1956). In 1967, it became formally affiliated with Church Women United and changed its name to Church Women United in Illinois.

CWUI was part of the East Central region and was divided into nine state areas with approximately 110 local chapters at the height of its membership. The state level organization consisted of elected officers and board members and functioned as a conduit between the local units and the national organization, channeling information, financial assistance, and support. CWUI members attended state and national assemblies, area institutes, and regional events to learn about social policy as well as set overall directions and priorities for the organization and its campaigns.

CWUI also conducted local observations of the CWU ecumenical celebrations such as World Day of Prayer, May Fellowship Day, and World Community Day. They created and held a variety of structured activities focused developing women as leaders and promoting membership, engagement, and organizational revitalization such as the Women LinC, Seeding Sisterhood, and young women's initiatives.

CWUI's activities and campaigns reflected the priorities of the national organization as well as state issues, with topics including healthcare, education, poverty, racism, domestic violence, and human rights. Notable campaigns include their 1983-1993 mission to build a chapel at Dwight Correctional Center (the only women's prison in Illinois without one); fundraising for Generations of Hope, a multigenerational community for foster families; Fellowship of the Least Coin; and fundraising for the National Farm Worker Ministry.

Scope and Content

CWUI spans 1957 – 2009, with the bulk of the records dating from 1990 – 2002. The collection is arranged into seven thematic series: Administrative History, Activities & Campaigns, Publications, Audio/Visual Materials, Ephemera, Scrapbooks, and Restricted. All series are organized chronologically and the majority of the collection corresponds to the history of CWUI.

Series 1: Administrative History, 1968-2009, undated, Box 1 - 10

Contains materials relating to the organizations history including: state bylaws and job descriptions, lists of state and local officers, board meeting agendas, minutes and notes, committee agendas and reports and financial documents such as budgets and treasurers reports. Other materials include unit, regional, area (Southeast), and officer handbooks; officer training materials; and state and national assembly materials. The board meeting and committee documents, treasurer reports, and regional/state assemblies are divided by year and arranged chronologically. The financial activities of CWUI are included with the treasurer reports and budgets/budget comparisons. Some of the information correlates specifically with the goals and history of the CWU national organization.

Series 2: Activities and Campaigns, 1957-2008, undated, Boxes 11 - 18

Contains materials relating to revitalization and leadership activities put on by CWUI, research and campaigns on social justice issues, and correspondences regarding the groups' activities. A significant part of CWUI and CWU overall is their celebrations. Materials from the World Day of Prayer, May Fellowship, and World Community Day celebrations are organized chronologically; many years contain planning information from the national organization and programs from the state events. CWUI also maintained strong affiliations with other religious and social justice organizations such as the Church World Service, Illinois Council of Churches, United Methodist Women, and the United Nations through joint activities and membership. Organizational information for these groups is organized chronologically and then by organization. Correspondence includes communication with the national chapter regarding significant changes in leadership and financial challenges in early 2001.

Series 3: Publications, 1968-2008, undated, Boxes 19 - 24

Includes the Churchwoman, Illinois Interpreter, newsletters from other state and local CWU chapters, Wellspring, CWU press releases and other national publications, and miscellaneous publications that were sent to the CWUI chapter. Together with the related CWU collections, this presents nearly complete sets of the ChurchWoman and the Illinois Interpreter.

Series 4: Audio/Visual, 1983-2006, undated, Boxes 25 - 27

Contains photographs, VHS videocassettes, and other audiovisual materials documenting the activities and interests of CWU. Notable items include slide presentations on CWU's history and World Day of Prayer, Valiant Woman Award recipient photographs, Dwight Correctional Center photographs, CWU's Seeding Sisterhood and Women LinC training videos, and video overview of CWU, and Generations of Hope project as featured on the Oprah television program.

Series 5: Ephemera, 1991-2006, undated, Box 28

Contains memorabilia from the organization including buttons, CWU embroidered patch, CWU logo stickers, a state assembly packet, and regional event souvenir card. Also includes confetti separated from correspondence in Series 2.

Series 6: Scrapbooks, 1963-06, undated, Box 29

Contains scrapbooks with photos and memorabilia from the personal activities of CWUI member Jeannette Munch and CWUI historian Ella Boyd and photos and biographical information on the Valiant Woman Award recipients from 1981-2001.

Series 7: Restricted, Box 30

Administrative History

Church Women United in Illinois (CWUI) is the state chapter of the larger national organization, Church Women United (CWU). CWU, established in 1941, is a volunteer interdenominational Christian women's movement comprised of women in the United States and Puerto Rico that works for peace and social justice.

The Illinois state chapter began in 1931 as the Illinois Council of Federated Church Women and underwent several name changes: Illinois Council of Church Women (1936), United Council of Church Women (1941), and United Church Women (1956). In 1967, it became formally affiliated with Church Women United and changed its name to Church Women United in Illinois.

CWUI was part of the East Central region and was divided into nine state areas with approximately 110 local chapters at the height of its membership. The state level organization consisted of elected officers and board members and functioned as a conduit between the local units and the national organization, channeling information, financial assistance, and support. CWUI members attended state and national assemblies, area institutes, and regional events to learn about social policy as well as set overall directions and priorities for the organization and its campaigns.

CWUI also conducted local observations of the CWU ecumenical celebrations such as World Day of Prayer, May Fellowship Day, and World Community Day. They created and held a variety of structured activities focused developing women as leaders and promoting membership, engagement, and organizational revitalization such as the Women LinC, Seeding Sisterhood, and young women's initiatives.

CWUI's activities and campaigns reflected the priorities of the national organization as well as state issues, with topics including healthcare, education, poverty, racism, domestic violence, and human rights. Notable campaigns include their 1983-1993 mission to build a chapel at Dwight Correctional Center (the only women's prison in Illinois without one); fundraising for Generations of Hope, a multigenerational community for foster families; Fellowship of the Least Coin; and fundraising for the National Farm Worker Ministry.

Scope and Content

CWUI Addendum 3 spans from 2011 to 2021. The records consist of board minutes, bylaws, Annual Information Material (AIM) packets, correspondence, a handbook, reports, and other materials related to the Investment Committee, State Assembly, Leaders' Council, and National and Regional gatherings.
