Administrative History

The Feminist Forum was founded in 1995 through the Women's Studies Program at Loyola University Chicago. The first meeting was held on the lakeshore campus, September 19th; graduate student Phoebe Stein served as leader for the night, and over 20 undergraduate students attended. The Feminist Forum, according to the application for new student organization, was founded in order to provide a supportive, safe, and open environment to discuss women and women's issues. A pro-active organization, the Feminist Forum sought to bring speakers and hold events to raise awareness of the challenges in many women's lives such as sexual violence, HIV and AIDS, discrimination, sexual harassment and awareness of systems of patriarchy.

Following the first meeting, the Feminist Forum created a constitution through which there were no officers, only equal members who delegated duties and shared authority. The Forum sponsored and co-sponsored numerous campus events, speakers, and counter protests, mainly on the lakeshore campus, including, Winona LaDuke, Kay Leigh Hagan, Dolores Huerta, Angela Davis, Take Back the Night, Radical Cheerleading, and the Vagina Monologues. Members have volunteered at Sarah's Circle, a Chicago area "drop in" center for homeless/abused women. Occasionally, the Forum was, and still is, at the center of controversy and conflict with other campus organizations over ideological differences, mainly abortion. As of the 2003-2004 academic year, the Feminist Forum continues to operate at Loyola University Chicago.
